MRO & AIRCRAFT CLEANING

Setting the Standard

ARROW AEROSPACE SOLUTIONS

Our trained staff work closely with customers to identify best practice and the maximum opportunity for cost savings, from simply adjusting a cleaning schedule to the installation of a new wash plant.

Arrow provides solutions for OEM and MRO operations in both civil and military aerospace, covering a wide range of high specification applications. Engine manufacture and overhaul, precision cleaning of electronic systems and onboard disinsection are just a few examples of where our products are put to work.

We are supported by numerous approvals from leading manufacturers and other authorities. It is critical that the cleaning and maintenance of any aircraft is undertaken with the utmost attention. The process of keeping aircraft clean inside and out has an impact on the health and safety of its passengers and crew.

There are potentially dangerous stowaways on every flight, they will be found on seats and headrests, tray tables and windows. The bacteria that passengers unwittingly carry with them can be a real problem for airline operators.

Solutions developed for specific maintenance applications hold just as much importance as the cleaning solutions developed for inside the aircraft. Arrow can ensure the continued airworthiness of an aircraft with the supply of chemical solutions that comply with industry directives.

Our focus on making the highest quality products and working closely with end users to optimise their process is why major OEMs, airlines and militaries around the world trust Arrow to maintain the safety and reliability of their fleet.

MAINTENANCE, REPAIR AND OVERHAUL

Safety is always the number one priority for airline operators. Making the correct choice when it comes to selecting the maintenance chemicals used in MRO tasks can both dramatically reduce the level of hazards workers face and ensure the right result, in terms of operational efficiency, is achievable.

Arrow Solutions' range of Aerospace products meet the highest quality standards and most stringent environmental regulations. Solutions including those specially developed for engine overhaul, mechanical and electrical corrosion prevention, as well as the degreasing of critical surfaces have all been developed by Arrow Solutions for right first-time cleaning.

AIRCRAFT CLEANING SOLUTIONS

Cleaning both civil and military aircraft as efficiently as possible involves plenty of planning, staffing, logistics and well-considered chemicals. Arrow work closely with operators to determine the safest and most efficient schedules and practices for internal and external cleaning requirements.

Arrow Solutions' range of cleaning chemicals for the aerospace industry are the result of extensive research and development collaborations with operators and technicians. Arrow Solutions' deep cleaning, exterior degreasing, heavy stain removal, disinfection and disinsection solutions have consistently provided major airline operators and OEMs with exceptional and economical cleaning outcomes.

Aircraft maintenance, repair and overhaul (MRO) is an essential requirement in preordained conditions of airworthiness.
